SCHOLARS REFLECTIONS

2023-2024

NEWSLETTER (11th EDITION)

Message

It is globally agreed that learning from textbooks constitutes only one fourth of real education. What is more important when providing actual education to the growing community is to promote their intellectual capacity and communication skills. Therefore, the school is carefully creating meaningful experiences for our students to interact and thus provide opportunities to experience learning. Like the earlier editions of 'REFLECTIONS', this new edition also gives a few of such experiences SCHOLARS has provided for our student community.

'SCHOLARS SCOUTS & GUIDES' winter camp on 30th December 2024 was a new experience for the children. It was a meticulously planned learning experience with both informative and entertainment programmes solely aiming at developing various psychomotor skills of the participants. Selection to the Asianet 'PROUD TO BE AN INDIAN (PTBI)' was a clear evidence that showcased our teachers' dedication and commitment to students' development. I am naming just two here to help the readers understand the school's direction.

On this occasion, I recollect the lines of William Wordsworth in 'The Daffodils', 'A poet could not but be gay, / in such a jocund company!' Similarly, I, as the principal of this great academic establishment SCHOLARS INDIAN PRIVATE SCHOOL, cannot but be extremely proud and delighted to be in such a dedicated and committed staff and management. Let me take this opportunity to express my deepest appreciation and gratitude for the teachers and students who are instrumental for the glory of the school. I also congratulate all those behind this newsletter.
